

Sennheiser MD421

Dynamic, hypercardioid.

Description:

The Sennheiser MD-421 has been around since the early 1960's. First introduced as an announcer's microphone, it has since found a multitude of other uses. It is a large diaphragm dynamic mic with a five position bass roll-off filter and can withstand very high sound pressure levels.

Applications:

This mic is a first choice for most types of drums and percussion. It can also be used on guitar cabinets, brass, and vocals (for which it was originally intended).
